

What is the KATSICE Program?

Kurbingui Youth and Family Development has developed the, Kurbingui Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Engagement (KATSICE) Program. The KATSICE Program assists audiences from mainstream Government and Non-Government organisations who provided services to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, families and community.

The KATSICE Program is a simple but effective one-day workshop which explores the process of engaging safely with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander clients using a cultural appropriate framework. Participants will be able to listen and learn from the very community that they work with, hearing stories from clients who have shared the experience of working with main stream organisations, what worked, what didn't work and how people were made to feel welcomed and safe enough to engage with these type of services.

Aims and Objectives

The aim of the KATSICE Program is to provide strategies, guidance and support to the targeted audience on how to engage with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people and families within their community.

The KATSICE Program has been designed to assist organisations and individual workers that work with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community as a part of their core business. Participants will be able to hear from the very community that they service and will be able to gain valuable knowledge around ways of Culturally Safe engagement techniques.

What We Can Offer

The Kurbingui Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Engagement (KATSICE) program, is a simple but effective one-day workshop which culturally demonstrates what is the best practise in delivering culturally appropriate ways to engage safely with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander clients, by delivering a culturally appropriate workshop.

Participants will be able to listen and learn from the very community that they work with, hearing stories from clients who have lived experience of working with main stream organisations, you will discover what worked, what didn't work and how people were made to feel welcomed and safe enough to engage with none Aboriginal and Torres strait islander identified services , you will gain valuable knowledge around ways to safely engage in a Culturally appropriate way, and learn Safe engagement techniques.

The KATSICE Program has been designed to assist organisations and individual workers that work with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community as a part of their core business.

Program Benefits

Participants will be able share in positive interactive learning through program activities such as:

Interactive Learning Questionnaire

The questions will be taken at the beginning of the session by participants. Throughout the program the answers for the quiz will be a part of the interactive learning and participants will be able to answer the questions. The questions will be answered at the end of the session.

Workgroup

A chance to connect with other organisations with the assistance of the presenters throughout the day to come up with a plan or hash out some ideas of how they will be able to provide this information back to their own organisations and teams that they work in.

Interview Panel

The audience is able to engage with a few of the members from the presenter group who are able to provide insight and answer questions to any queries that they may have. This is an exciting interactive process that helps to provide answers to any of those harder more personal questions that workers may have come across when working with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander clients, families and Community.
