About Kurbingui

Kurbingui Youth and Family Development (Kurbingui) is an Aboriginal community based and driven not for profit organisation that offers services to the Aboriginal Torres Strait Islander community members, families, children and young people living within the Greater Brisbane, Moreton Bay and South East Regions.

Kurbingui began operations in 2001 and are proud to have an established and maintained solid footprint throughout these regions; delivering various community services and support across areas such as employment and training, family and youth support, domestic and family violence, alcohol and substance abuse, cultural education and engagement, education support for children and young people and their families, youth justice, recreation and sports, groups and workshops for young people, men and women.

Our Vision

To be a deadly organisation that supports our mob on their journey.

Our Mission

To build a flexible, sustainable organisation based on cultural values that can empower community to reach their potential.

Our Values

Personal Growth – Nurturing self-awareness and cultural identity through learning, development of new skills and feeling the sense of achievement of taking action.

Harmony – Nurturing a whole and integrated community with a positive and harmonious identity.

Accountability – Being an organisation that is honest and ethical, acts with integrity and works from agreed values.

Communication – Open communication and exchange of views that promotes and values differences and similarities amongst all people.

Team Work – Cooperating with others towards a common vision and a creative approach to work produces leadership, which is shared.
